Disney's

Pooh Says Please

Pooh was polite.
He always said "please."
(Even when asking for honey from bees!)

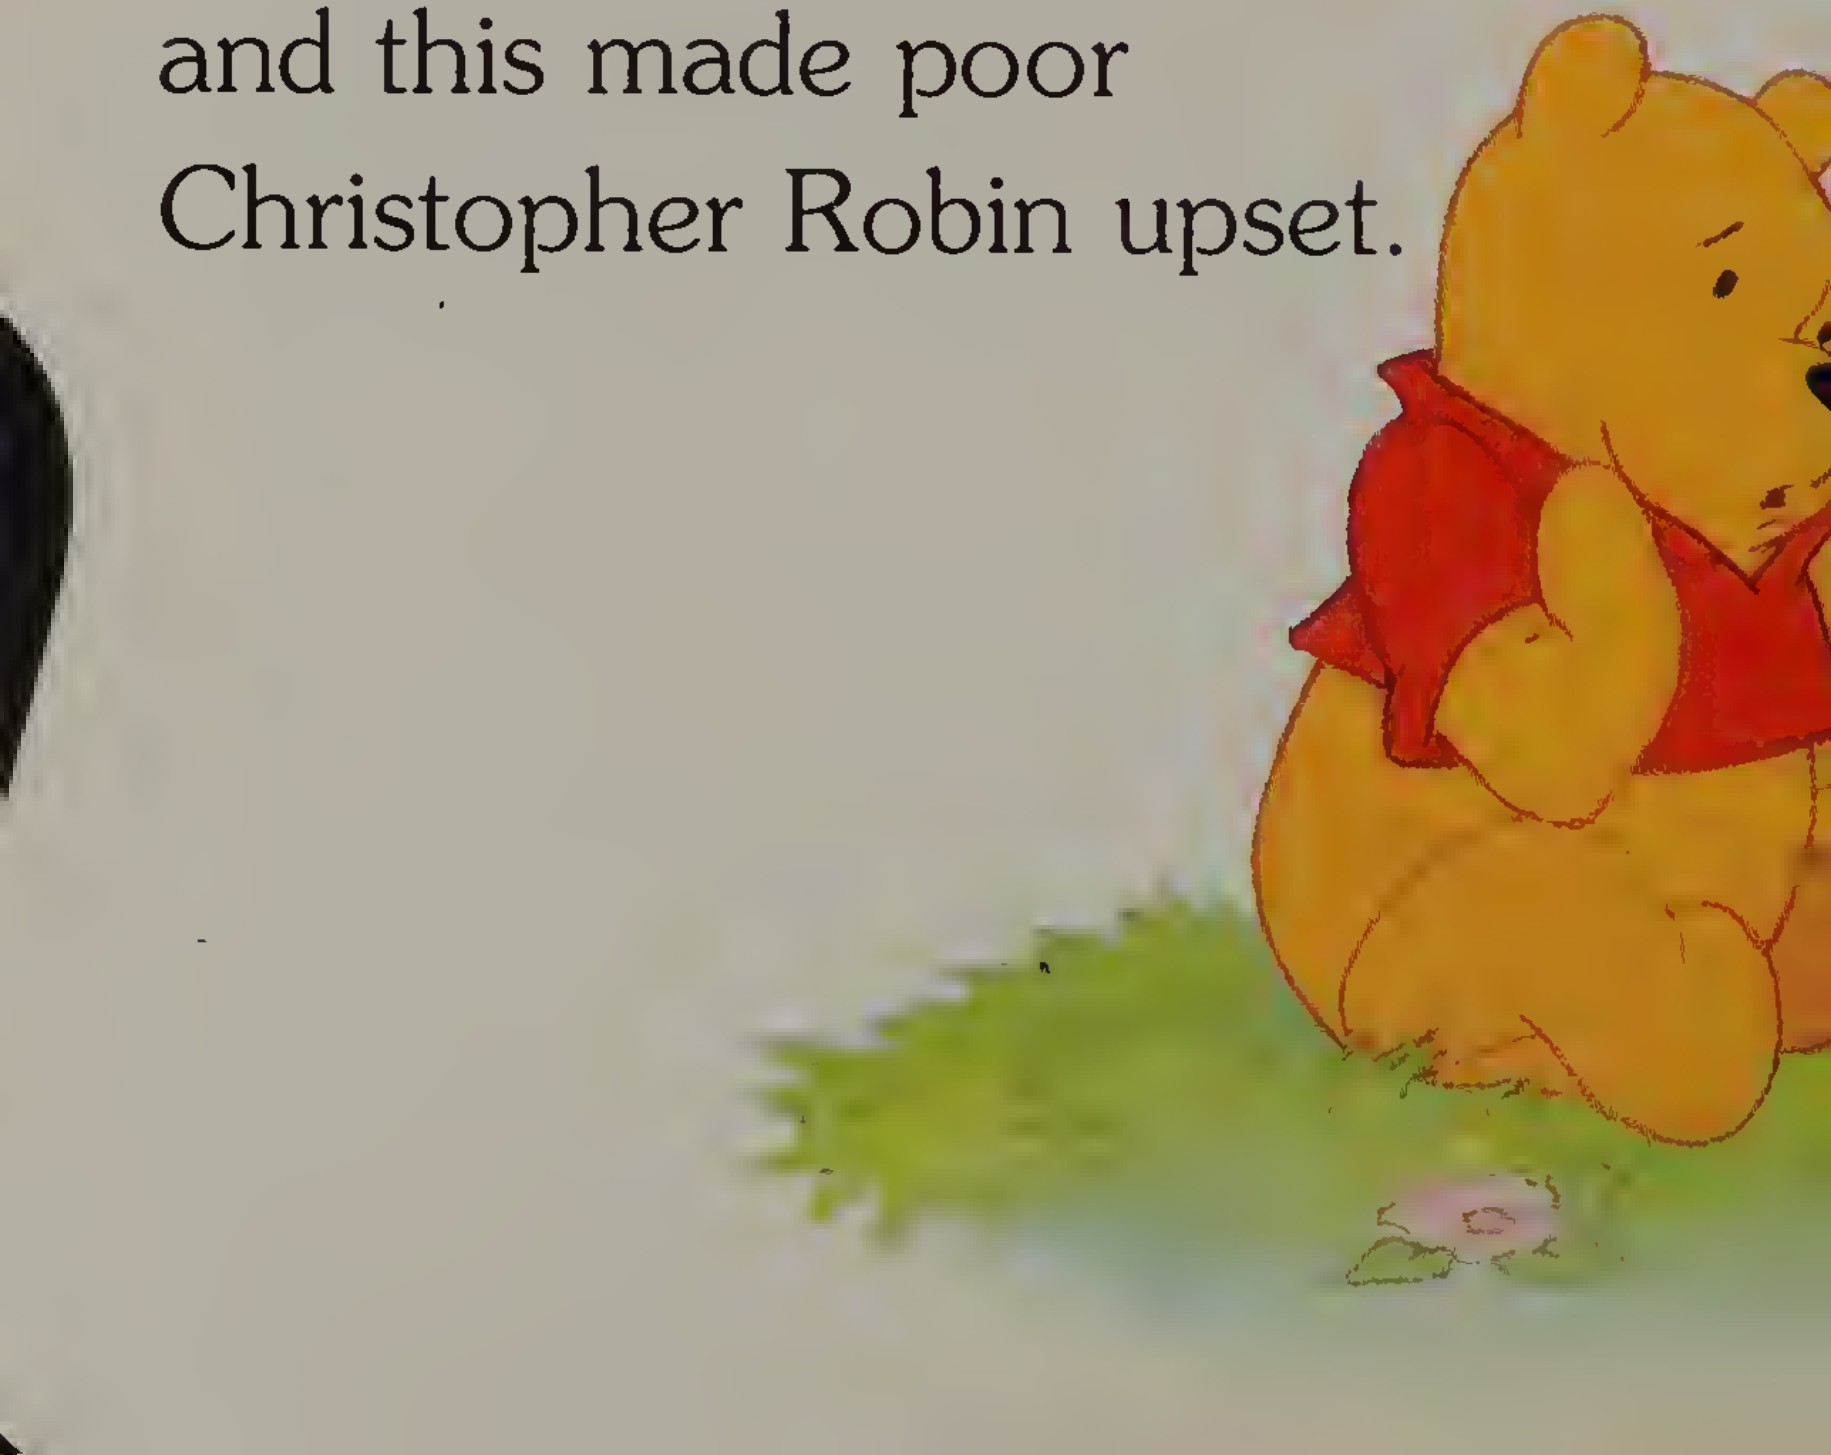
But "thank you" was easy
for Pooh to forget,
and this made poor
Christopher Robin upset.



"I always say 'please'
without thinking—I do!
But 'thank you' can stump me," sighed Winnie the Pooh.

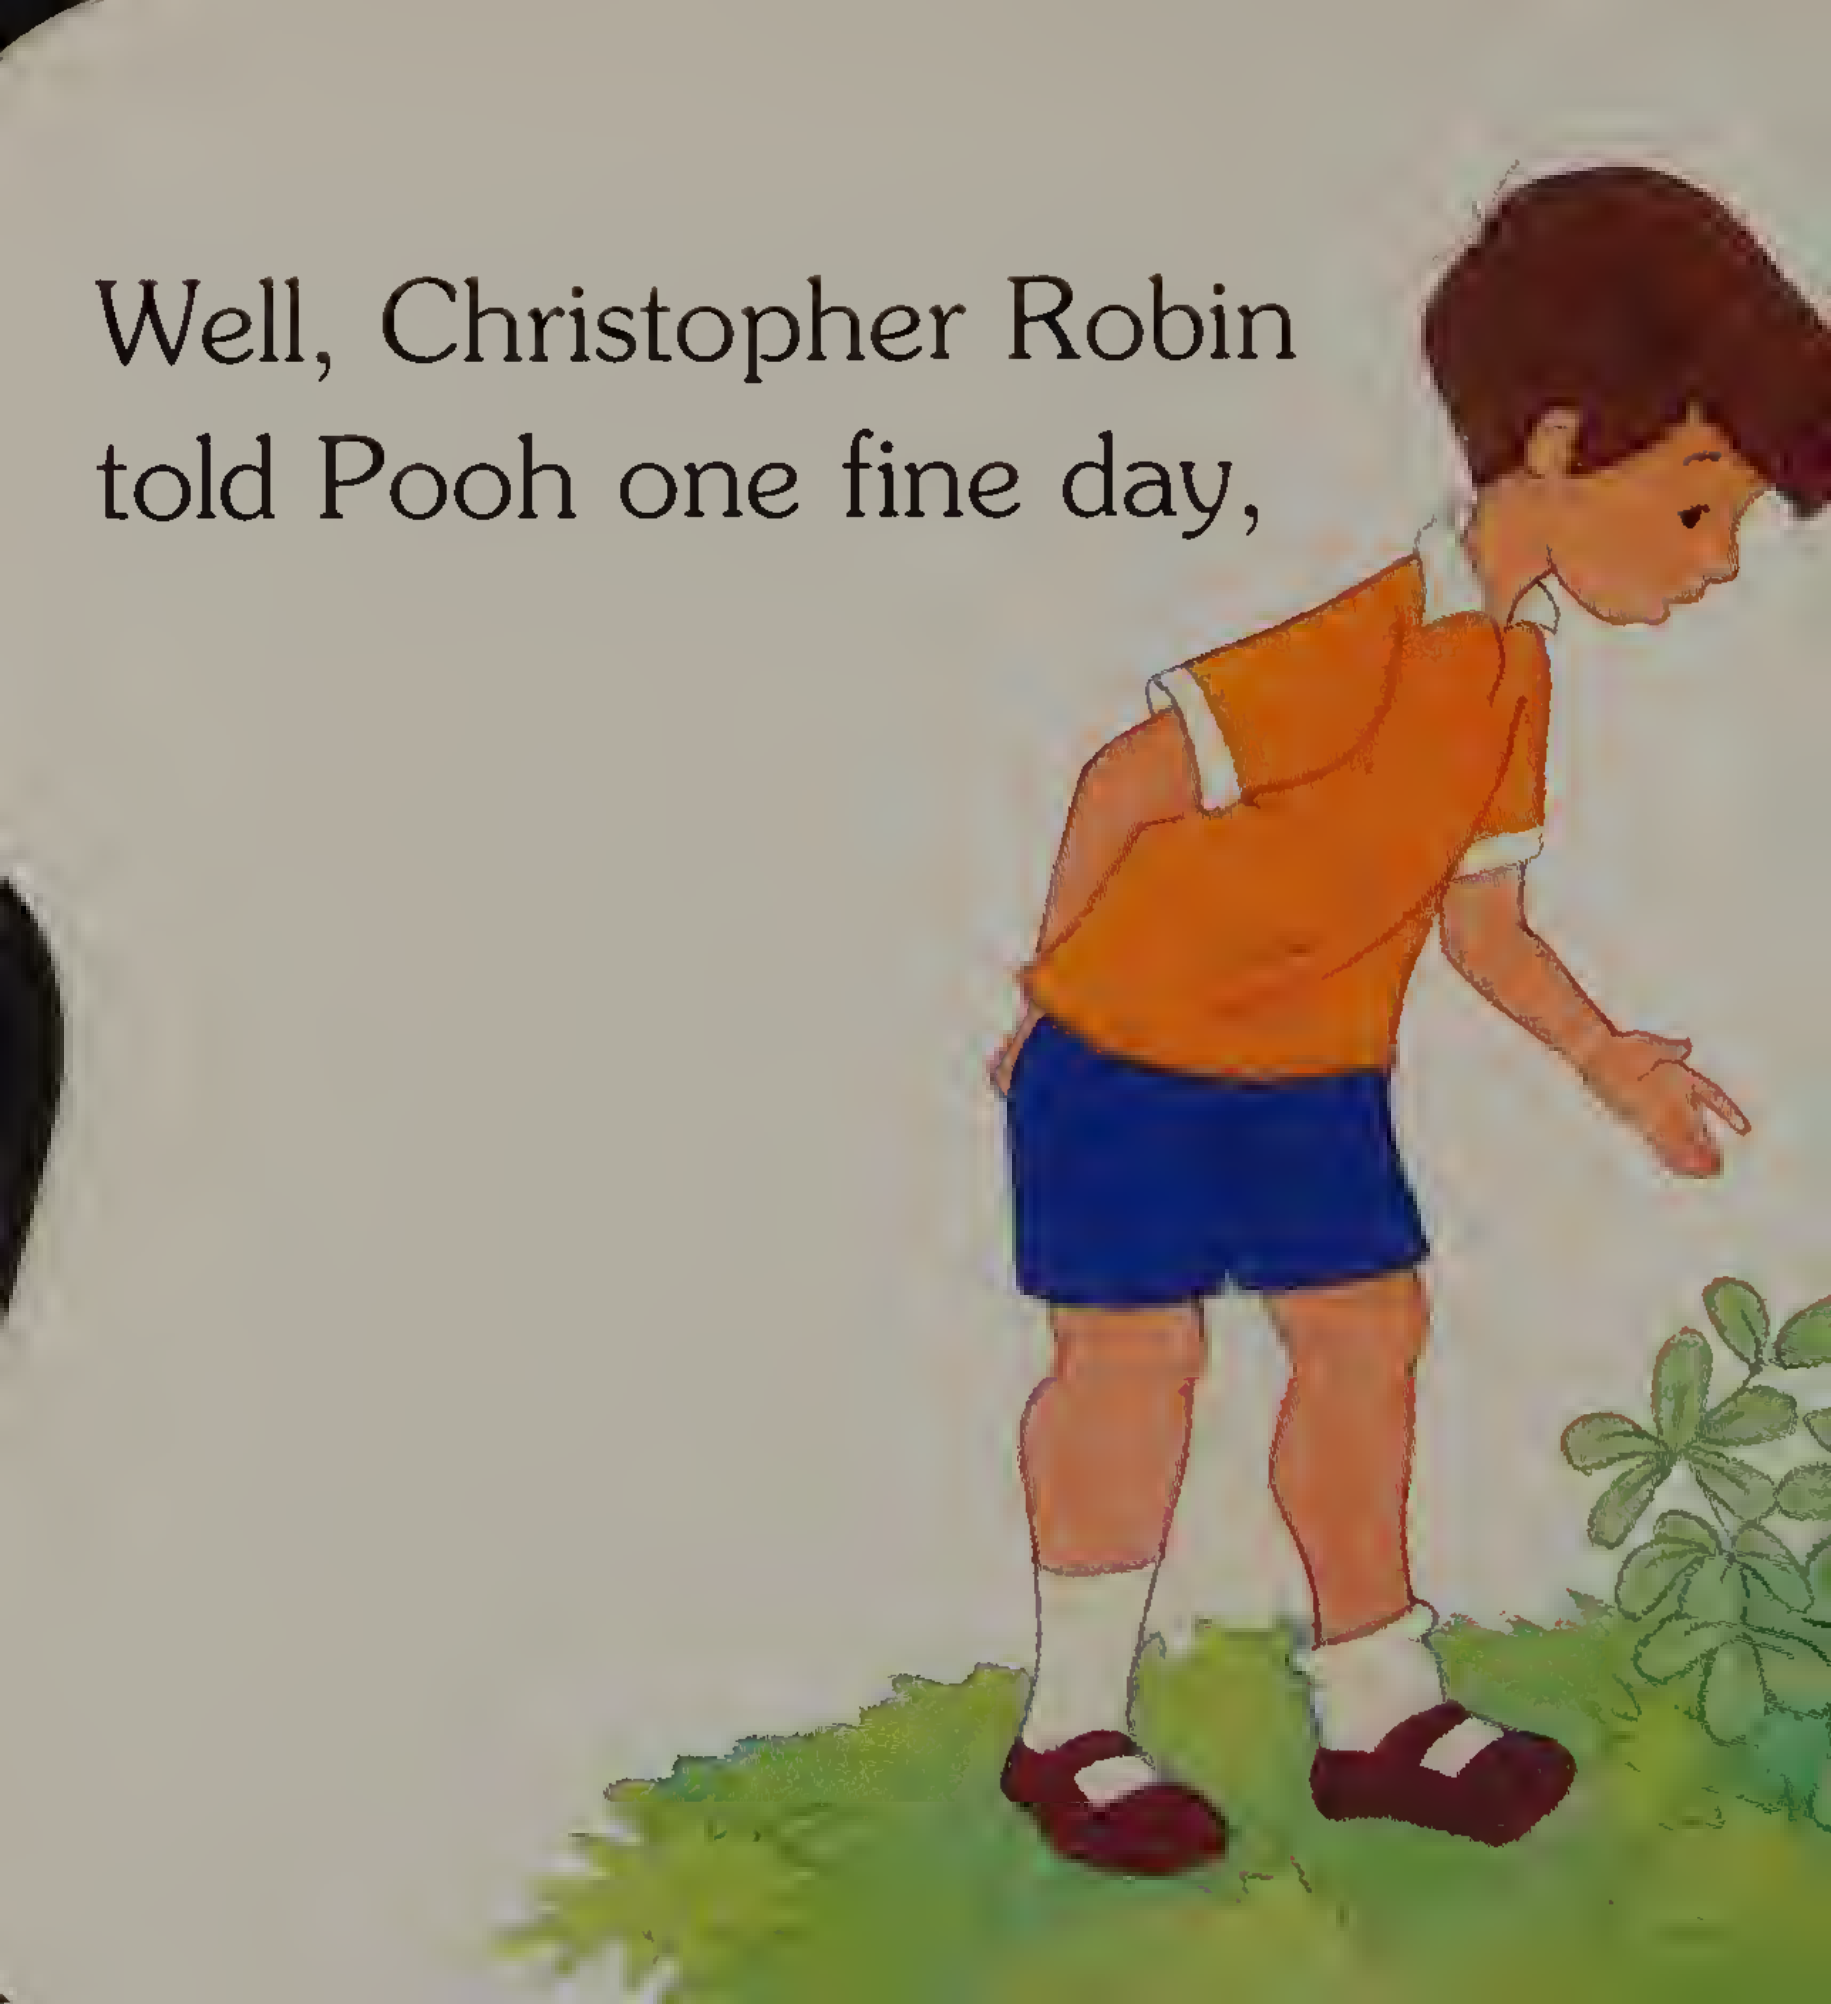
Well, Christopher Robin
told Pooh one fine day,



"You simply must practice—
there's no better way."

So Pooh Bear invented
his own "thank you" hum.

He practiced with Eeyore,
his gloomy old chum.

Pooh practiced with Piglet.
He practiced with Roo.
"Oh, thank you!" he practiced.
"And thanks to you, too!"

Pooh looked in his mirror
and practiced there too.

At last he felt ready to greet you-know-who!

"Christopher Robin,
I've something to say.
I'm pleased to say 'thank you'
for this wonderful day!"

$3.50 US
$4.95 CAN

Pooh learns to say please (and when to say thank you, too).

A MOUSE WORKS™
CHUNKY ROLY-POLY BOOK

9780736401500
22
08/13/2019 9:17-3
0 28074 08742 0

Based on the Pooh stories
by A. A. Milne
© The Pooh Properties Trust